Fun fact: Nathan and I started a trend. We started wearing the WW capes on Friday. No other males in the park were. On Saturday, I saw at least a dozen males wearing them. Could it be possible that those screwed-up California girls found it attractive, so it caught on?

Incidentally, we also set a trend when it came to the Gold Rusher. After we rode it, subsequent riders started screaming.

Perhaps some explanation is necessary. Before we got on the log ride Cris and I switched outerwear because my windbreaker is water-resistant and she wanted to sit in front. I, frankly, didn't care if I would get wet because I was wearing her sweater. Win-win. As for the flower, Nathan won it in a game and didn't want it. Soon I decided I didn't want it either (isn't a Wonder Woman cape enough?) so I gave it to Alyssa.
